Run Together
Background

Exercise is considered by some to be the closest thing to a ‘miracle drug’ and running is one of the most straightforward ways to access the important benefits of exercise and is easily accessible. Starting out and getting used to running, if you haven't done it in a while or never done it before, can be intimidating and many fail before they have reached the end of the road!

- Running can reduce stress, improve heart health and alleviate symptoms of depression.
- According to a study published in the journal of the American College of Sports Medicine, spending just 30 minutes running is enough to lift the mood of someone suffering from a major depressive disorder. Even participants who moved at a walking pace received the same mood-lifting benefit.
- Studies on the cognitive-boosting effect of aerobic exercise (which in many studies was either running, jogging, or brisk walking) found that for children, running improved working memory and focus. For adults, this sort of activity provides a long list of cognitive benefits, including working memory, focus, and task switching.

There has been a surge in the popularity of running, jogging and brisk walking thanks to the success of Parkrun globally. In Jersey the adult Parkrun sees between 300 – 500 participants a week. This weekly FREE activity, along with the Junior Waterfront Parkrun on Sundays provides opportunities for all the family to take part in a socially inclusive community physical activity programme. New research by Staffordshire University has shown that parkrun increases confidence, helps to reduce isolation, depression, anxiety and stress, and gives participants space to think. Volunteering opportunities at parkrun increase inclusivity as people who do not want to walk or run, or are unable to, can participate by volunteering.

Move More Jersey are committed to helping more people to start, continue and increase how much they run. We know running with other people means you're more likely to keep running regularly. We have also listened to lots of people starting out on their running journey who don't yet feel confident to join a running club.

To help bridge that gap we will use the Run Together model to provide islanders with FREE opportunities to take part in coached sessions which enable them to take up running / jogging in a fun and inclusive environment. It is hoped that this will enable people to add running / jogging into their daily lives but also create inclusive running programmes which will give people the confidence to take up running, make social connections and if they wish, lead up to taking part in the weekly Parkrun.
